Parents and professionals: Our communication program for children with hearing loss and auditory processing issues, featuring a family-centered, multi-disciplinary approach, starts with infants and is available to children of all ages through and including adults.

Meet the speech pathologists who teach children to use the sounds they hear to learn and use language better than anyone; speak with our educational specialist who can work with a child's school and teachers to make sure that they are getting the most out of their education and learn about our social groups and literacy programs for children of all ages; see how our emotional health and wellness team can help children feel comfortable in the world around them; and meet the audiologists who can explain how state-of-the-art technology in combination with unparalleled skills and experience will help children

Adults with hearing loss and family and friends: In addition to learning about our communication programs, experts on tinnitus, assistive listening devices, audiology, and mental health will all be available to discuss our programs for children, adults and seniors.

Get a free hearing screening, discuss hearing technologies with our audiologists, learn about our clinical services, view our antique hearing aid exhibit, receive free earplugs, enter a drawing for a door prize, and enjoy wine and light refreshments!
